

Still running your business on a spreadsheet?

Spreadsheets can NOT improve project profitability because they can not link all aspects of a project.

If you think it's not hurting your business, ask yourself:

If the bank called right now and asked for a percentage-complete report on a client project, where would you look in your company for accurate, reliable, real-time information?

- A spreadsheet
- Somewhere in the accounting department
- On Suzy's desk
- I'll ask the customer for details and get back to you
- An integrated business process management software system that has complete history on everything about a client—from details of their sales process to the implementation plan, to their current billing statements

One application to run your whole business

In a contracting world you are required by bonding agents, bankers, etc to report work in progress and percentage of complete. Excel spreadsheets just don't cut it. Our integrated solution, Q360 will help you:

- Quote the job
- Manage the job
- Look at efficiency and contract amounts
- Review profit/loss in real time
- Invoice the job
- Report on the job accurately every night

Our software Q360 addresses:

- WIP Reporting
- Real time profitability on any job at any given time
- Present cost in excess or billings in excess and includes back-up documents to say where you came up with the number regardless of what you invoice or collect

- Project Management that is tied directly to your accounting system.
- Never be out of sync with your banker again
- Project manager can look at any point and time to make sure there are no over runs or approve efficiencies before overruns occur
- Project managers can make good decisions and their manager can hold them accountable
- Review labor costs in advance to see what your profit margin will be on any given job
- Know immediately when something has been invoiced, paid, noted or unfilled

When you look at good reporting that resides in ONE location, you can make better business decisions that help you run the business.

No more spreadsheets. Check us out.

SOLUTIONS360
business.managed

www.solutions360.com